Recommendations:

Over the five years I have known Audrey, I have found her coaching and management of projects to be extraordinary. Audrey's successfully coached me to overcome significant and unexpected barriers from both a personal and business perspective. Case in point, as an impact of September 11th, my employer at the time laid-off 40% of his workforce – including myself. Faced with the challenge of seeking new employment in the midst of building a new house, Audrey's coaching led me to create my own business that has more than quadrupled its annual revenue for the 3 years it's been in existence.

I have utilized Audrey's skills in the development of my entire company and - to a person - we each can point to specific results her leadership has provided us.

As a former business executive of Fortune 500 firms (i.e. former Regional Vice-President of Starbucks Coffee) I appreciate the fact that this may occur to you as another ordinary to whom it may it may concern. I can assure you that there is nothing "ordinary" about Audrey – she's truly exceptional!

- CEO, Canada

She literally has altered my entire life and I never want to be without her. No offense, but I introduce her to my colleagues as my Messiah.

- Former NFL player and CEO of Real Estate Firm, Los Angeles

More than any person I have ever met, witnessed or encountered, Audrey stands for things being fulfilled. No matter what the opposition, the state of disarray, the obstacles, or the fact that others think something's impossible; Audrey stands for it IS possible. Then she brings her vision and keen insight to discover and create pathways to causing it. There's not a person alive I'd more want on my team than Audrey Cavenecia.

- Award winning Producer/Writer, Los Angeles

Audrey has the amazing ability to "see in the dark and hear in the silence." On several occasions I have witnessed her have people recognize things about themselves – in an instant – that gave them access to taking on new initiatives and achieve incredible results. If you are out to make the impossible happen, have Audrey on your Team.
